GAME AT GOTHAM TODAY

There'll be no game in New York today, if a little bunch of weather that is headed for the North Atlantic coast doesn't miscarry. Off the coast of Georgia and South Carolina on Wednesday was an area of extremely low pressure. The barometer read as low as 29.65.

"This office doesn't forecast New York weather and I'm not the official forecaster, anyway," said W. W. Reid, chief clerk in the local office of the United States weather bureau, Wednesday, "but I don't believe from the looks of the

Looking for Opportunity?

Young Men Who Listen Can Win Out, For It Is Knocking at the Door Every Day

An Advertisement by Daniel Knowlton

OPPORTUNITY is said to knock but once at the door. The trouble is folks aren't listening. Energetic and capable young men all over the country are seeking and grasping opportunities all the time. The difficulty is to find quality of opportunity. That is a harder proposition.

Nevertheless, equal opportunity for business success awaits in at least one line of manufacturing, and that is the fourth largest in the United States—the shoe industry.

It is the every-day things that really count the most. And shoes are among the every-day things. You put on your shoes in the morning and you take them off at night with not a thought beyond getting your feet covered for the day. You don't think of the thousands and thousands of people who are engaged in making shoes, of the large amount of money employed in the business of shoe manufacturing, or of the millions of pairs of shoes that are made and sold each year in the United States.

This every-dayness of shoes is truly amazing. For example, it is estimated that the factory value of this year's production of footwear in the United States will amount to over five hundred million dollars—over half a billion! The people of this country, it has been figured, spend each day in the purchase of shoes the sum of $2,500,000,000.

Statistics show that 21,000 more pairs of shoes are required to supply the people of this country than last year, and this demand must be met, and will be met, and it will never diminish. Why not, then, be a shoe manufacturer? Surely here is opportunity knocking.

Robert Hubbard, in a recent issue of The Era said: "Shoe-manufacturers are a prosperous people. There is no 'Shoe Trust'; and there can't be, for there are thirteen hundred shoe-factories in the United States, and more are being formed. I know of six shoe-factories in Saint Louis, all started by employees who have come out of one particular factory and embarked in business on their own account, and they are all making money."

Today, the boot and shoe industry is the one large business left in the world not run by a so-called Trust, and the United Shoe Machinery company is responsible for that fact.

Monopoly in shoe-making, as Robert Hubbard says, is out of the question, and for a very simple reason. Because the United Shoe Machinery company leases its machines on exactly the same terms to all manufacturers—whether large or small—competition in shoe-making is more free than in any other large industry, and will remain so. Under this royalty system a shoe manufacturer can start in business with small capital, which he can turn several each year, making a small but steady profit himself on the total value of his business, at the same time guaranteeing himself a business of the narrow margin of profit on each pair of shoes. There is no other big industry of which this is true.

The wonderful growth of shoe manufacturing in this country in recent years has been made possible through the machinery and service to be obtained from the United Shoe Machinery company. Herein lies both opportunity and equality of opportunity.

This company equips factories with the best shoe machinery made at a low and uniform rental—absolute impartiality in the rental, no preference is shown. The average royalty paid by a shoe manufacturer for the use of all machinery furnished by the United Shoe Machinery company for the manufacture of all kinds of shoes is less than two and two-thirds cents per pair of shoes—less than one one-hundredth of the total manufacturing cost. The royalty paid for the use of all the company's principal machines is making the most expensive Goodrich shoe only five and a quarter cents per pair—a little more than a cent.

On Goodrich, turn, McKay, standard arrow, and loose nailed shoes (and these lower grades comprise two-thirds of the shoes made in the United States), the royalties average less than one and one-third cents per pair—less than what you pay for a postage stamp for a great cake.

Thus it is all that the United Shoe Machinery company receives for manufacturing its machines, for installing them in factories, for their use by manufacturers, for keeping them in order through a spare expert system, and for instructing operatives when required.

All this has a significance, a meaning very much all its own. It means that a shoe manufacturer does not have to tie up thousands of dollars in the purchase of machinery, it means that he can devote his time and energy exclusively to the making of shoes and selling them; it means that the youngest and smallest manufacturer obtains shoe machinery on the same terms as his largest and richest competitors; it means freedom of competition in the shoe industry and the growth of the small manufacturer.

Many a shoe manufacturer today, among the thirteen hundred who are doing business in thirty-four different states of the union, acknowledges that his start in business and success as a manufacturer are largely due to these conditions.

And these conditions mean also that any lively manufacturing city (and there are many of them in every state) can add the manufacture of shoes to its successful industries, and that enterprise, young men with only modest financial resources have equality of opportunity as manufacturers of shoes.

Yes, it's the every-day things that count, and shoes are very much every-day merchandise. There's money in making shoes, more shoes must be made every day, in making shoes with a big O in knocking for those who will listen.

PAUL REESE SPENDS HOUR IN PRISON CELL

While He Is Having Unique Experience Ad Men Inspect Federal Prison.

The Ad Men club of Atlanta visited the federal penitentiary late yesterday afternoon as the guests of Warden Sawyer.

Several weeks ago the warden of the penitentiary invited the local association of advertisers to inspect the great federal prison here, and at a dinner at the Ad Men club, the invitation was accepted officially and the date of the visit set for yesterday.

Following luncheon at the Anley, the Ad Men were driven in automobiles to the prison, where they were greeted by Warden Sawyer, who, in turn, introduced the visitors to Deputy Warden Sawyer.

The following prison guards, the guests were taken on a complete tour of the prison, which is one of the largest in the South.

The Ad Men saw the prisoners at work in the stone yard, and as they passed out of the west set of cells, they found that Paul P. Reese was missing from the party. Deputy Warden Sawyer, but said he could not explain the absence.

One hour later, when the party had reached the prison, they were allowed to inspect the cell block and the prison.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

Atlanta New York Paris

Announcing That We Have Just Received From

Estelle Mershon

20 E. 46th St., New York

Many Smart Hats of Paris Origin

Fact is, few days pass now that we could not make the same announcement. Hats are constantly coming in now from Estelle Mershon.

It is a thing to marvel at, that so many hats can be so distinctive and charming. The genius of the Paris milliners is wonderful! And perhaps no city in America, outside of New York, has better reason to know this than Atlanta.

And Atlanta has about the same reason as New York. One of the smartest "little shops" of the metropolis furnishes Atlanta with Paris styles as quickly as ocean greyhounds and fast express can whirl them to us.

These lately arrived hats—Their beauty and distinction is that of line more than anything else.

It is not so difficult to find rich colors and fine materials, but it is the artist's touch that molds these materials of exquisite colors and combinations into beautiful hats.

And there is where Estelle Mershon has differ, the curve of a brim, the angle of a feather, the unexpected placing of a flower—these are the points that make the hat a success, and yet they have nothing to do with prices.

Will you see these that have just arrived?

FORTH TO GIVE THESE CHILDREN A

LIFE EQUIPMENT ARE BEING NULLIFIED.

High is an imperative task that makes appeal to the womanhood of the city.

The little children are calling! The men of the city quarrel or are sleeping.

WHAT WILL THE WOMEN OF THE CITY DO ABOUT IT?

MR. OTTLEY HONORED.

The election of John K. Ottley, of Atlanta,

as reported in yesterday's Constitution,

to the presidency of the clearing house

section of the American Bankers' association,

confers a signal distinction not only upon

Mr. Ottley, but as well upon the southern states.

The clearing house section is the most important of the subdivisions of the bankers' organization. Its activities deal with percentage every artery of American finance and has a momentous bearing on the international money

relations of the country. When it is remembered that the clearing house plan is of comparatively recent origin, and that its possibilities are yet to be worked out, the importance of Mr. Ottley's assignment is quickly realized.

Personally, Mr. Ottley is ideally equipped for the task. He has made a special study of clearing house organization and machinery, and is considered an authority on national standing.

It appears The Constitution dealt with the smallest part of the event when it produced against city officials giving free license to contractors to obstruct the city's streets practically at will. It develops that it is the custom for contractors engaged in dismantling, excavation or building to erect street barriers and then to ask permission afterward. It is probable that Atlanta is the only city of size in the country that toler-ates this practice. In other cities it is the custom to require contractors, irrespective of the kind of work in which they are engaged, not only to keep off the street,

but to keep the sidewalk alone. Where building operations extend over the subway the contractor is required to erect an arch so that there may be no interruption

to the passage of pedestrians.

In Atlanta the streets appear to be blithely and without restriction turned over to contractors. Even when they are wholly unobstructed, the street is too narrow to accommodate the expanding volume of traffic. Traffic-congestion is one of the most serious problems facing the student of municipal affairs. Yet the conditions are aggravated and left by the unwritten law that gives to contractors the privilege of further narrowing streets almost at will.

The danger, inconceivable to the average citizen, is the expense and exposure of the customer are self-evident.

Council cannot afford to delay action in remedying this intolerable condition. It must, in the first place, rescind its order of establishing a precedent by allowing special privileges in this direction to its own members. It cannot very well

keep the conditions at large as they are

if it is guilty of such flagrant discrimination.

There should then be forthcoming an order

requiring that when a contractor desires to fence in part of a street or a sidewalk, he should gain official permission to do so and that then his intentions shall be fully advertised that the city and all persons affected may be protected. Those who desire to close or semi-close a public thoroughfare should go before council itself.

Diversifying traffic is so serious a matter

to be treated lightly.

The experience of all other up-to-date

cities has shown that regulations of this nature do not penalize growth, or place

heavy cost on the contractors. It is time for Atlanta to shake her slaphash methods

A Story of the Moment

bage have gone and got married, the assessor, "I wish them the best luck in the world, but I don't see them going to keep the wolf from the door. Jim was only $12 a week, and that doesn't go

cost of living is the talk of the town."

"They'll get along all right," said the assessor, "I don't count a married man

any more to live than it does a bachelor.

And Mabel Cribbage is a mighty good manager."

A woman may be the best manager in the United States," observed the village patriarist, "but if she hasn't anything to manage she can't put up much grain. The wife

in this country would be reduced by one-half advice to young folks who are contem-

the back, and telling him a bully boy with a striped tie and leading him to believe that he'd done something well and credit-

SOCIETY

Gordon-Jones Wedding
Beautiful Society Event

Conspicuous in social interest was the marriage of Miss Kathryn Gordon to Mr. Harrison Jones, a beautiful event of last night. The ceremony took place at the First Baptist church, a large congregation of friends attending, and afterwards an intimate company was entertained at the home of the bride's father, Mr. M. Gordon, on Boulevard.

The bride was Miss Kathryn Gordon, daughter of Mr. M. Gordon, and the groom was Mr. Harrison Jones, son of Mr. H. Jones. The bride was dressed in a gown of white tulle and lace, and the groom in a tuxedo. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Jones, pastor of the church. The wedding party included Miss Lila Gordon, sister of the bride, and Mr. J. H. Jones, brother of the groom. The reception was held at the home of the bride's father, where a large number of guests were entertained.

Church Devotions. An elaborate decoration obtained at the church, to draw attention to the wedding, was the centerpiece of the church. The decorations were in the shape of a large white cross, with a large white cross in the center. The cross was made of white tulle and lace, and was decorated with white flowers. The cross was placed in the center of the church, and was the focal point of the decorations.

The Bride's Groom. The bride's groom was Mr. Harrison Jones, son of Mr. H. Jones. He was a young man of about 25 years of age, and was a member of the First Baptist church. He was dressed in a tuxedo, and was the groom of the bride.

What Will Atlanta Women Do To Better School Conditions?

By Irma Dwyer. What are the women of Atlanta doing to do about the conditions which exist in the public schools of this city? At this one of the most demanding periods of the city's educational history, let us face the facts and see what can be done.

First and foremost, let us face the situation of woman and the vote which she must use if she had it. Remember, she has it not. If she had it we all know how she could and would use it in the matter of any legislation pertaining to the life of the child. If this moment every woman in the state had a vote, she would use it to secure a forward, steady and sure and started a crusade making for the betterment of the child.

The demand made upon the women of Atlanta is to use whatever power they have in the emergency. They must be more at once. They must wait until they are empowered to act in any other way than through the power of influence.

Women's Education Great. This is a tremendous power which is being developed in the hands of the women of Atlanta. They are being educated in the most thorough manner, and are being trained in the most practical manner.

For the Toiler

The cost of living is a hard nut to crack for the working man. He must have nutritious food and plenty of it, and the food must be cheap.

Do you know that there is more nutrition in a 10¢ package of FAUST SPAGHETTI than there is in 4 lbs. of beef? It is rich in gluten, the food content that makes muscle, bone and flesh.

It takes time, hard work and patience to organize this force of all the Atlanta women. It was done before by the city federation. It will be done again. Besides the world's assistance which the world civic club has given, the Atlanta women have organized a force of all the Atlanta women.

It is the moment now when all the Atlanta women are to be organized. It is the moment now when all the Atlanta women are to be organized. It is the moment now when all the Atlanta women are to be organized.

FAUST SPAGHETTI will reduce your cost of living. Cut your meat bills two-thirds—buy a few packages of FAUST SPAGHETTI! It's delicious, tastes delicious, has an appetizing, savory flavor. You can make a whole meal of it. Send for free recipe book—shows how many ways Spaghetti can be cooked.

At all grocers—5¢ and 10¢ packages.
